Committee Named For Organization of City's Boosters

President of Chicago Chamber of Commerce Will Address Local Organization at Banquet -- Fifty More Members Wanted -- Plans Rounded Into Shape.

Definite plans for the organization of a Chamber of Commerce in Coshocton were made at a meeting held at the public library last night.

Since the week of the Fall Festival, work has been carried on daily by local business men preparatory to launching the organization and the plans were rounded into definite shape last night.

Committees were named to take care of various phases of the work and the formal organization will take place at a date in the near future. The date will be announced as soon as it can be learned when President Krebbs of the Chicago Chamber of Commerce, and other noted speakers can be present for the opening banquet. E. Monroe Steele will be in Chicago next week when he will personally interview President Krebbs and arrange the date.

It is anticipated that no less than three hundred men, all loyal boosters for a bigger and better Coshocton, will attend the banquet which will probably be held in some local lodge hall. At this banquet the articles of incorporation will be presented and future plans of action decided upon.

There are at present 158 prominent men who have signed up as members of the organization. This morning a committee named last night will start to work in an effort to secure fifty more members bringing the number up to over 200.

Committees Named

E. W. Heinke, J. L. McKeown, William Rider, Clarence Clemens, E. C. Compton, D. G. Gayle and E. Monroe Steele were named last night as a nomination committee. They will nominate officers for the organization and will report at the banquet.

O. M. Dilts, J. L. McKeown and G. Fred Cantwell were appointed to solicit fifty more members.

William Rider, William Compton, D. G. Gayle and E. Monroe Steele were appointed as a committee to make arrangements for the date of organization. They will secure speakers and take charge of other arrangements for the affair.

C.B. Hunt and M. B. Smith will have the article of incorporation prepared and ready to be read at the banquet.

The general committee to take charge of arrangements for the banquet is composed of: Mr. Mau, George Brushwood, Charles Ransom, Carl Meade, William Lynde and Harvey Lorenz.

The publicity committee is composed of: O. M. Dilts, E. C. Compton and C. S. Siegrist.

D. G. Gayle, Charles Ransom, Fred Cantwell and O. M. Dilts are named on the committee to investigate prospective quarters for the organization and to have all data concerning the expenses of the Chamber prepared so that the members may be informed at the banquet.

To Secure Quarters

According to present plans, the organization will be started on a social basis. Handsome club rooms will be furnished. It is planned to have the club rooms consist of a smoking room, lounging room, private committee room and general assembly room.

The club hopes to expand within a short time so that the entire county will be included and every member will be pledged to put his shoulder to the wheel and BOOST.

The organization will take an active interest in all affairs of a public nature. One of its aims will be to secure needed public improvements both in the city and in the county. An effort will be made to better conditions throughout the city and county by means of concerted action.

There is a good bunch of boosters behind the organization and its success is a foregoing conclusion in the minds of all.

Widow Gets Big Award From State

Mrs. Sarah J. Lillibridge, of South Sixth street, had not been informed at a late hour last night of the award of $2,096 made by the State Industrial Commission at Columbus Wednesday according to the terms of the workmen's compensation act in the matter of the death of Mrs. Lillibridge's husband, Moses Lillibridge, who was fatally injured in the Warwick mines. Funeral bills and medical expenses were also allowed amounting to $118.

She Saw Him On His Way

Constable Bassett was cheated out of a job Wednesday morning. Attachment papers were made out against goods belonging to Martin Fulks and his wife by Andrew Ricketts in Justice E. G. Abbott's court Wednesday morning, but, before the constable could serve the papers, Mrs. Fulks paid the bill.

Make Great White Way On S. Sixth

That Coshocton is to have a "Great White Way" along South Sixth street was rumored Wednesday when it became known that W. H Bachert had purchased the gas cluster light which has been on display on the Fourth street side of the courthouse square for the past few months and will erect the same in front of the Central Bank at Main and Sixth streets. It was said that other lights of the same pattern would also be placed along the street. Owing to the fact that Mr. Bachert was out of town, this latter feature could not be verified last night.

National Pike Open to Traffic

Local auto drivers will be interested in the fact that the old National Pike between Zanesville and Hebron, has been reopened for traffic. The pike has been closed for some time while it was being paved with concrete.

SAYS COUNTY CANNOT BUY AUTOMOBILE

Prosecutor Porter Gives Commissioners His Opinion In The Matter

OTHER COUNTIES OWN MACHINES

County Must Continue To Spend Big Sum Annually For Auto Hire

The county commissioners are not empowered by law to purchase an automobile for the use of the county surveyor despite the fact that auto hire is a big item of expense, according to an opinion given the commissioners Wednesday by Prosecutor Don C. Porter.

Several times County Surveyor Shaw has pointed out to the commissioners the need of a cheap automobile for his department showing that the county is at present spending considerably more than $600 annually for automobile hire.

Several counties have furnished their surveyors with automobiles but it seems that the expenditure is not allowed by law according to the prosecutor's opinion. Following is the opinion in full:

The Board of County Commissioners, of Coshocton County, Ohio,
Coshocton, Ohio.

Gentlemen:

Under even date herewith you request my opinion upon the following question:

"Have we, as the Board of County Commissioners of Coshocton County, Ohio, authority to purchase an automobile for the use of the County Surveyor?"

The only statutory provisions having any bearing on the question here made are sections 2786 and 7181 of the General Code which provide as follows:

Section 2786. The County Surveyor shall keep his office at the county seat in such room or rooms as are provided by the County Commissioners which shall be furnished with all necessary cases and other suitable articles at the expense of the county. Such office shall also be furnished with all tools, instruments and books, blanks and stationery necessary for the proper discharge of the official duties of the County Surveyor. The cost and expense of such equipment shall be allowed and paid from the general fund of the county upon the approval of the County Commissioners. The County Surveyor and each assistant and deputy shall be allowed for reasonable and necessary expenses incurred in the performance of his official duties.

Section 7181, [illegible] L. 612. The salaries above provided for, shall cover all services rendered by the County Highway Superintendent to the state, county and townships. In the event the County Highway Superintendent cannot properly perform all the duties of his office, the County Commissioners shall fix the aggregate compensation to be expended for assistants by the County Highway Superintendent during the year. Such compensation shall be paid out of the County Treasury in the same manner as the salary of county officials is paid. In addition thereto, the County Highway Superintendent and his assistants, when on official business,

EVERY CHILD IS ENTITLED TO A CHANCE IN LIFE SAYS WILLIAMS

Parents Need Reformation Says Director Of Child Welfare Work

THE DUTIES OF THE COMMUNITY

Speaker Urges Changes In Marriage Laws To Prevent Degeneracy

Before an audience almost filling the Sunday school room of the Presbyterian church, C. B. Williams director of child welfare work of the Ohio Board of Charities, presented the work of his department in a forceful and convincing manner Wednesday evening.

The speaker told how the board is endeavoring to eliminate so far as possible the undesirable features in the care of dependent children and to make conditions under which these unfortunate little ones must live as ideal as possible. He emphasized particularly the importance of replacing institutional care with home life and parental love which he said was the natural craving of every normal child. One of the most difficult and dangerous questions the board has to solve is the placing of these children in suitable homes, he said, and at the same time protect desirable homes against receiving children who are physically and mentally unfit. Toward solving this problem the board, he said, is conducting personal supervision over all children from all public and private institutions in the state, who are sent out for adoption and at the same time is conducting a scientific psychological and physical examination and study of every child who comes under their supervision so that the foster parents when they take a child for adoption may be assured so far as it is possible

County Has Four Votes At Meeting

J. L. Myers, of Fresno, Perry grange; M. J. Valentine, Oak Grove grange; E. E. Clark, Keene Hill grange, and Allen Murphey, of the Fresno, will be the Coshocton county delegates to the state grange convention held in Elyria December 14, 15 and 16. This is the first time that Coshocton has had sufficient grangers to entitle the county to four representatives. All granges having resolutions to be presented to the state meeting should place them in the hands of one or the other of these delegates.

War Raises Beet Market

That the European war is responsible for the market increase in the price of sugar during the past month is the opinion of many grocers. Under certain tariff measures the growing of the sugar beet in America was discouraged and as a result, now that the European supply is decreased to an alarming extent, American growers have no means of supplying the demand. This has created a scarcity of the beet from which the refined sugar is made, hence the higher price. Sugar has advanced on the local market almost 50 cents on the hundred or a half cent a pound.

Mrs. Frank Ayres, of this city, is spending a few days in Columbus taking further treatment from Dr. Rector.

SALOONS CUT TO NINETEEN; BUSINESS BAD

Ed Young Fails To Register After Being Granted License By Board

OTHER SALOONISTS STRUGGLE ALONG

License Commissioners Say Liquor Traffic In Coshocton Is Not Profitable

Because Ed Young, who conducts the saloon in the Patterson property on North Fifth street, failed to register and pay his $100 license fee, after being granted a license privileged by the County Liquor License board, the city will have but 19 saloons instead of the 21 allowed under the state license law. There were but twenty applications. Mr. Young, it is understood, intends going out of the saloon business and the license board, it is understood, will not issue another license for the location which he now holds. The saloon is in a residence district and while the board says it has been conducted in an orderly manner, numberless complaints have been made against the location of a saloon there by the residents of the vicinity themselves and those who are compelled to pass it many times a day. Mr. Young's present license will expire the first of the year and it is not likely that another license will be granted to replace his.

In the opinion of the license board the saloon business is decidedly on the wane in Coshocton and it is said that a majority of the 19 proprietors now holding licenses are having a hard struggle to keep things going.

England Holds 60 Greek Ships Now In British Waters

British Deny That 1500 Greek Sailors Are Seized -- Reported That Central Powers Have Finally Won Support of Roumania -- Bulgars Win.

Liverpool, Nov. 17.—Sixty Greek ships in British waters have been warned not to sail until the status of Greece is officially determined.

Reports that the Greek ships and their 1500 Greek sailors had been seized were officially denied today.

Rumania For Germany.

London, Nov. 17.—Former Premier Carp is credited by the newspaper Adeverul in Bucharest with the statement that Rumania will take up arms on the side of Germany in December.

The prediction is made by M. Carp that as soon as established communications make it possible, Germany will make an offer to Rumania in the form of an ultimatum requiring a reply within 48 hours.

News of anti-dynastic riots at Patras was followed today by reports from Athens, Greece, that King Constantine had expressed a desire to discuss the military situation with Lord Kitchener, the British secretary of state for war, who is now in the near East.

This indicated that the king may be inclined to adopt a less uncompromising attitude toward the allies.

Stern measures have been adopted here to put down political rioting.

The more drastic martial law is threatened if anti-government demonstrations occur here.

New War Committee Meets.

The first joint meeting of the new English war committee and the French war board was held in Paris today. This is in line with the policy of closer co-operation agreed upon by the English and French governments.

Premier Asquith, David Lloyd-George, minister of munitions; A. J. Balfour, first lord of the admiralty, and Sir Edward Grey, the foreign minister, arrived in Paris last night.

Sir Edward is not a member of the war committee, but his advice is asked on special occasions.

The Balkan situation was discussed thoroughly. Not only the military needs but the diplomatic phase was canvassed by the conferees.

Kaiser Reported In Command.

The supreme German war lord, Emperor William, is now said to be directing the operations of the Teutonic allies in the Balkans personally.

One of the outstanding features of the near-eastern situation today is the presence there of the kaiser and Lord Kitchener, the British secretary of state for war.

It is reported in a Reuter dispatch from Athens that Field Marshal Von Mackensen, who directed the Austro-German drive through northern Serbia, will go to the Dardanelles to take command of the Turkish and German forces.

Bulgarians Take Prokuplie.

Over a line that stretches more than half way across New Serbia, a bloody battle is raging with success favoring now one side and again the other. With the aid of reinforcements the Bulgarians have recaptured Babuna pass and Isvor from the Serbians. French forces which tried to cut their way through to the relief of the Serbs were thrown back. Prokuplie, 20 miles southwest of Nish, has also been captured.

Sofia reports that the French have lost heavily in the fighting on the Tcherna river.

Fate Of Serbian Army.

The fate of the Serbian army may be only a matter of hours. Monastir, in southwest Serbia, is reported to be in such a perilous position that the consular officials have departed from the city. From the various conflicting reports which have reached the public the following apparently may be deduced as facts:

The Bulgarians have taken Krusevo and are six miles west of Perlepe. Thus the southern Serbian army and its Franco-British allies are confronted with the imminent peril of an outflanking movement.

Tetovo is in the hands of the Bulgarians. The fate of the Serbians holding Babuna pass is more obscure. One report states that the pass has been forced. It seems certain that the defenders are at least threatened so seriously that their position soon may be untenable.

With Krusevo and Babuna in the hands of the invaders, the fate of Perlepe would be sealed and the road to Monastir opened.

Coshocton Asked to Renew Work For Relief of Belgians

The Ohio Commission for Relief of European War Sufferers supplements the appeal made on Nov. 17 by the Commission for Relief in Belgium by asking its city and county branches in Ohio to renew their work to help stricken Belgium.

O. K. Shimansky, secretary of the Ohio State Board of Commerce which organization has charge of the relief work in Ohio, issues this statement:

"The Ohio Commission for Relief of European War Sufferers today telegraphed national headquarters in New York that Ohio would continue to do its full share in giving help to the sufferers in Belgium as well as the remainder of war-ridden Europe.

"Since the first of January last, the Ohio Commission has sent to Belgium over $200,000 in food supplies, every cent's worth of which has been donated in the shape of provisions or purchased in Ohio towns with cash contributed by Ohio people.

"In addition to this splendid work, Ohio has sent provisions to Albania, via a vessel loaded at New York and to Serbia, through the Committee of Mercy New York, and to almost every other war devasted country through organizations that have been able to show delivery of goods."

The Ohio Commission for Relief of European War Sufferers has the backing of many of Ohio's leading citizens. Edward D. Libbey, of Toledo, is president, and the advisory committee composed of Myron T. Herrick, of Cleveland; Brand Whitlock, minister to Belgium and Governor Willis. Col. J. G. Battelle, of Columbus, is Chairman of the executive committee and Mrs. W. O. Thompson, of Columbus, is president of the woman's auxiliary. Other leading members of the state organization are Geo. E. Pomeroy, Toledo; J. J. Gill, Steubenville;

So now let me thank you for your wonderful discovery and take this opportunity to recommend it to all who suffer from kidney trouble.

Yours very truly,

Lotteries.

Lotteries are almost as old as history itself. It is certain that they were known to the Greeks and Romans, and [illegible] descended, through Italy, to modern times. In the Italian republics of the sixteenth century the lottery principle was applied to encourage the sale of merchandise, the lotto of Florence and that of Venice being well known. In England the earliest lotteries sanctioned by the government were for such purposes as the repair of [illegible] and docks, about 1569. By the Virginia company of 1612 the lottery was brought to America.

Gotham Hotels Are Prosperous

New York, Nov 16.—New York hotels are enjoying an era of almost unprecedented prosperity. Many of them are unable to accommodate the increasing number of guests. This is attributed in part to the arrival of many purchasing agents and their extensive suites sent here by England, France, Russia and Italy.

Agents from stores in South America, Central America, the West Indies and Canada, who formerly went to London, Paris or Berlin are here to do their buying for the first time. Buyers and visitors from the west are arriving at the rate of 2,000 a week at a time when the hotels usually are crowded with visitors from the smaller eastern cities and nearby country districts.

COAL, NOT COLD

A typographical error, which was not caught in the proof-reading, occurred in the Gray Hardware Company's advertisement in Tuesday Morning's Tribune. The word "coal" was spelled "cold" in the top line, changing the sense of the ad, which should have read "Cal Puts This Coal Hot Blast Heater In Your Home."

Don't Merely "Stop" a Cough

Stop the Thing that Causes It and the Cough will Stop Itself

A cough is really one of our best friends. It warns us that there is inflammation or obstruction in a dangerous place. Therefore, when you get a bad cough don't proceed to dose yourself with a lot of drugs that merely "stop" the cough temporarily by deadening the throat nerves. Treat the cause—heal the inflamed membranes. Here is a home-made remedy that gets right at the cause and will make an obstinate cough vanish more quickly than you ever thought possible.

Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. This gives you a full pint of the most pleasant and effective cough remedy you ever used, at a cost of only 54 cents. No bother to prepare. Full directions with Pinex.

It heals the inflamed membranes so gently and promptly that you wonder how it does it. Also loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough and stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol, and is famous the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

For washing dishes

This is one of the uses in which Gold Dust is supreme.

But remember that its use is not to be limited to washing dishes.

Gold Dust cleans, brightens and beautifies everything in the house.

It is safe, quick, and sure.

Millions of women have learned that it is the one washing and cleaning powder for all cleansing and purifying purposes.

It cleans floors, linoleum, kitchen utensils, bathtubs and bathroom fixtures, windows, fine woodwork, silver, plated, copper and nickeled and enameled ware—

And it does not scratch or mar.

In the truest sense Gold Dust really works for you.

It penetrates corners that can not be reached with fingers or wash cloths and takes out dirt and grease. In addition to its activity as a cleaning powder, Gold Dust acts as a disinfectant.

It makes everything clean and pure. Gold Dust is the only cleaner you need. Its popularity is universal.

It is inexpensive and indispensable.

shall be paid out of the County Treasury, their actual, necessary traveling expenses, including livery, board and lodging.

Nothing in the way of specific authority is given by either of these sections to either the Surveyor or the County Commissioners to purchase an automobile at the expense of the county. The case of State ex rel. Frank [illegible] Denomonder vs. Commissioners of Mahoning County, 30 O. C. C. [illegible] 578, in which the Court decides the right of the sheriff to purchase vehicles for official use at the expense of the county is in my opinion conclusive against any authority to be implied from the provisions of either section 2786 or 7181 authorizing the County Commissioners or the Surveyor to purchase for his use an automobile at the county's expense. The Court in that case says:

"If the Legislature intended to have County Commissioners supply sheriffs with horses, vehicles and harness, or to allow them the expense [illegible] incurred in their [illegible] it certainly would have so provided in unmistakable terms. Simple words only were used to [illegible] such a provision."

The [illegible] decided to [illegible] situation of section 2[illegible] [illegible] This statute [illegible] the [illegible] of the expenses of County Sheriff [illegible] the charge of his official duties was then broadened to [illegible] with reference to the [illegible] sections 2786 and 7181, the statute [illegible] [illegible] The [illegible] those sections [illegible] the allowance of expenses [illegible] purchase of any article [illegible] equitable to your question with the exception of livery, board and lodging; and all other [illegible] articles can be [illegible] only by implication. The [illegible] of the Surveyor as a public officer to compensation, fees or allowance must depend on express legislature enactment or on necessary implication from the terms used. I am unable to see how the terms used in either section 2786 or 7181 can be extended so as to include by implication the purchase of an automobile.

I am therefore of the opinion that none of the provisions of section 2786 and 7181, as amended, in 106 Ohio Laws, are broad enough or specific enough to authorize the Board of County Commissioners to purchase an automobile for the use of the County Surveyor.

AS WE GROW OLDER

our minds are quite as active as in former years but our strength does not respond when we need it most: perhaps the kidneys are weak, the liver torpid, rheumatic pains or stiffened joints beset us, and we cannot easily throw off the colds that winter brings.

What we need is the rich cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion to renew the blood and carry strength to every organ of the body, while its glycerine soothes the respiratory tract, and its hypophosphites strengthen the excitable nerves.

Scott's Emulsion is a scientific oil-food, of unusual benefit to those past fifty years—particularly during the colder seasons, it imparts warmth and creates strength. One bottle will prove its worth. No alcohol or harmful drugs.

A Cat or a Father.

In his "Life of Thomas B. Reed" Mr. Samuel W. McCall tells this story about the former speaker, who was an unusually large man:

When his daughter Katherine, or "Kitty," as he called her, was a little girl she had a cat to which she was much devoted. One day the kitten was sleeping in Reed's chair when he was about to sit down. His daughter, in horror, gave the chair a sudden pull to save the cat from annihilation, and as a result Mr. Reed sat down heavily on the floor. It was a rather serious happening for a man of his size, and even a lesser man might easily have lost his temper. But the only notice he took of the matter was to say gravely after he had got on his feet, "Kitty, remember that it is easier to get another cat than another father."

The Heaviest Meal.

"When do you take the heaviest meal of the day?" asked a bachelor of a married man.

"When my wife cooks it," came the reply.

Scientists discover the cause of bleeding gums and loose teeth

The old idea that bleeding gums and loose teeth (symptoms of pyorrhea) are due to little pieces of tartar or bone under the gums, has been exploded. Scientists have made the astounding discovery that this disease is caused by a germ which is found in every human mouth.

Senreco contains the best corrective and preventive for pyorrhea known to dental science. Used daily it will successfully protect your teeth from this disease. Senreco also contains the best harmless agent for keeping the teeth clean and white. It has a refreshing flavor and leaves a wholesomely clean, cool and pleasant taste in the mouth.

Girls! Act Now! Hair Coming Out Means Dandruff

Save your hair! Beautify it! It is only a matter of using a little Danderine occasionally to have a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, wavy and free from dandruff. It is easy and inexpensive to have pretty, charming hair and lots of it. Just get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance; freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you can not find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower; destroyer of dandruff and cure of itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

Inspector Is Busy In Dennison

The first of perhaps 25 arrests for alleged violation of the liquor laws were made in Dennison Tuesday, by Chief of Police Miller, upon affidavits of A. J. Tubauld, state liquor license inspector, who has been operating in Dennison for several weeks.

Those arrested Tuesday were Joseph Romania, residing in the south side of Dennison.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kastre, Italians.

Mrs. Byron, proprietress of a resturant in Center street, Dennison.

Romania was arraigned before Mayor Pittenger Tuesday afternoon, pleaded guilty and was fined $150 and costs. A friend went security for Romania until he pays his fine.

Mrs. Kastre will be arraigned Thursday morning at 9 o'clock and her husband will be given his hearing one hour later.

Mrs. Byron was to have been arraigned at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, but her hearing has been postponed until 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

For the next few days, it is expected there will be at least a score of arrests upon charges of operating speakeasies.

Many surprises are promised. It is said the inspector has the "goods" on nearly all of the suspects.

Blue Overalls May Disappear

Chicago, Nov. 17.—If the European war keeps up, it is quite likely there will be no more blue jeans, and toilers of the future may be garbed in overalls of pink or gray, according to the prediction of F. R. Hamburger, secretary of the National Association of Garment Workers, which began its semi-annual session here today.

"The supply of blue vegetable dyes is about exhausted," he said, "and we are unable to get more, as Germany is the sole exporter of the blue dyes used here."

"In the meantime the work of the Commission will go on just as actively as it has during the past year. Ohio is shipping car loads of provisions to New York almost every week and now that there is an additional call for clothing, the Buckeye State will respond liberally as it always does.

"The Ohio Commission for Relief of European War Sufferers is able to send supplies direct into Belgium, Serbia and almost all of the other suffering lands. Through the well-organized efforts of responsible people in New York and the generosity of Ohio backers of the work, all supplies are transported without cost to donors.

WHERE NATIONAL DEFENSE IS NEEDED

Cornelius Donovan, president of the Tenants' Union of New York City presents to the constitutionists of England and the preparationists of the United States some facts which they should consider. Here is one of them to exhibit with something else than abuse:

"England has not established justice for her plain people, and has forgot to conserve their freedom, and for this neglect and omission she is paying a fearful price.

"Recently a Government agitator, in an effort to rouse the patriotism of a great meeting of men and persuade some to enlist, exhibited a collection of cottages, and asked, 'are these houses worth fighting for?'

"A voice from the crowd shouted, 'AYE! Let the man that owns them fight for them!' The owner might have been an English Astor.

"It is not unreasonable to ask men to fight for their homes; to strike for their altars and their fires, for the green graves of their sires. But what manner of men will fight for a lodging house, the ministrations of the Salvation Army, or the privilege of decent burial in the potters' field.

"To force men to go off to the trenches to defend a government that has not defended them, though instituted for that very purpose, a Government that has been preverted and made the most potent instrument of their exploitation and oppression, is tyranny indeed.

"The lawyers who are governing Britain have not been good enough to restore to its citizens their ancient right of access to the soil which made them the freest people in all Europe. They have not compelled restitution of the commons stolen from them while they were fighting Napoleon; a perfidy that caused Byron to ask Wellington the question, 'Who, my lord, but you and yours, have gained by Waterloo?' England's government has nurtured a blighting parasitism that has injured the saving patriotism of her inhabitants, and now leaves her nearly naked to her enemies.

"Let Americans be warned by the pitiable predicament of Great Britain and wipe from their own Constitution and statutes the great number of parasitic eggs that have been stealthily planted in them by the cuckoos of absorbing privilege.

"Already the soil of the United States is in the legal possession of too few to give employment to myriads of persons who were born in the country.

"If the Congress at its coming session can be persuaded to be Constitutional to the extent or extreme of establishing justice, it will return to the straight and narrow paths found by the men of '76, revoke the tribute taking titles to the earth, and take for the support of the Government, the annual values of the opportunities of the country collected by the States. The conservatives who control the Congress and the State Legislatures must be roused to an appreciation of the danger of delaying these concessions. An unprecedented hunger and thirst for justice has come to the masses of Americans. This can only be satisfied by an equitable distribution of the vast wastes of wealth that surround and amaze them. The growing knowledge that the few have become ultra rich and the many condemned to poverty, by the perverted powers of their own Government, is filling the people with anger and anarchy. No strength of Government, no preparedness that can be imagined, can save these traitors and the beneficiaries of the treason from the wrath of an outraged public when at last aroused."

Before Congress proceeds to spend money to ward off a danger that only exists in the imagination of certain excitable individuals, let it legislate against a great enemy that is already at work in this country—Predatory Privilege. Armies and navies are no defense against that enemy, and while it is allowed to oppress the people undisturbed, there is no reason why they should worry about another enemy that has not yet appeared.

NOTABLE BIRTHDAYS TODAY
Nov. 18.

William James Flynn, Chief of the United States Secret Service, who is one of the busiest officials under the federal government at the present time, is 48 years old today. "Bill" Flynn is the man who is running down the plots of foreigners in the United States to foment strikes, to blow up munition works, and to fire ships engaged in foreign commerce. Never before in the history of America has there arisen such an acute situation. All the prejudices and secret devilry that characterize European government has been initiated in America, and it is Flynn's difficult job to thwart them. He has a crew of picked men on the job, and many of the alleged plotters are in jail or indicted for their work. Flynn's activities ordinarily are centered in running down counterfeiters. But he is big enough to cope with any situation, and has the full confidence of all government officials. Chief Flynn was born in New York on Nov. 18, 1867. His education was gained in the public schools. He joined the Secret Service in 1897, and has been connected with the department almost continuously. He has made a wonderful record, particularly since he was made chief in 1912. He has made a study of criminals and their methods, and has the faculty of running down clues and handling large crews of investigators.

Major Henry Lee Higginson, famous Boston war veteran, banker and philanthropist, 81 years old today.

"Dorothy Dix," popular woman writer, 45 years old today.

Dr. Charles W. A. Veditz, economist and tariff expert, 43 years old today.

Hon. Francis Cochrane, Minister of Railways and Canals in Canada, 63 years old today.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

"Well," replied the tired looking woman, "he's an optimist in hoping for the best, but a good deal of a pessimist in working for it."—Washington Star.

Three True Steels.

Iron and carbon steel, vanadium steel and tungsten steel are pointed out by Professor J. O. Arnold, British metallurgist, as the three true steels. The second kind is iron and carbon steel with 5 per cent of vanadium, the iron carbide having ceased to exist, and vanadium carbide being present, and the third kind is iron and carbon steel having 11.5 per cent of tungsten, the iron carbide having been expelled by the tungsten. Iron and carbon steel hardens at 730 degrees C., vanadium steel just below 1,470 degrees, its melting point, and tungsten steel at 850 degrees to 1,200 degrees.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Even the judge, whose face had been sternly set against the defense, shifted in his chair and his expression softened. The commonwealth's attorney rose and walked forward, and Anse Havey clenched his hands under the table, while his fingers itched to seize the tormentor's throat.

"You don't know that Anse Havey didn't incite this murder. You only choose to think so. Isn't that a fact?" stormed the prosecutor.

"I know that Anse Havey is incapable of it," was the tranquil retort.

"How do you know that?"

"I know him."

"Who procured your presence in this courtroom as a defense witness?" Each interrogation came with rising spleen and accusation of tone.

"I asked to be allowed to come."

"Why?"

"Because I know that back of this prosecution lies the trickery of interests seeking to dispose of Anse Havey so that they may plunder his people."

The lawyer wheeled on the judge.

"I must ask your honor to admonish this witness against such false and improper charges—or to punish her for contempt," he blazed furiously.

But the judge spoke without great severity as he cautioned: "Yes, the witness must not seek to imply motives to the prosecution."

If Juanita, however, was sustaining with no outward show of discomfort the savage onslaughts of a man trained in the art of confounding those who sat in the pillory of the witness chair, she was inwardly feeling need of holding her emotions masked and in check. As the questions became more and more personal, and she recognized in their trend the purpose of making her appear biased, she first flushed a little, then paled a little, but her voice betrayed no hint of annoyance.

The attorney took another step forward with a malicious smile. He paused that the next question and its answer might fall on the emphasis of a momentary silence. Then he pointed a finger toward the girl, with the manner of one branding a false witness, and demanded.

"Is there any sentimental attachment between you and this defendant, Anse Havey?"

There was a moment's dead silence in the courtroom, and Anse saw Juanita's face go white. Then he saw her finger nails whiten as they lay in her lap and a sudden flush spread to her face.

She looked toward the judge, and at once the lawyer for the defense was on his feet with the old objection. "The question is irrelevant."

Then, while counsel wrangled with each other, the girl drew a long breath, and the man whose life was in the balance turned pale too, not because of this, but because the woman he loved had been asked the question which was more to him than life and death—a question he had never dared to ask himself.

"I think," ruled the court, "the question is relevant as going to prove the credibility of the witness."

So she must answer.

The prisoner's finger nails bit into his palms and he smothered a low oath between his clenched teeth, but Juanita Holland only looked at the cross-examiner with a clear-eyed and serene glance of scorn under which he seemed to shrivel. She replied with the dignity of a young queen who can afford to ignore insults from the gutter.

"None whatever."

The defendant sat back in his chair and the smile left his lips as though he had been struck by a thunderbolt. He knew that his case was won, and yet as he saw her leave the witness stand and the courtroom, he felt sicker at heart than he had felt since he could remember. He would almost have preferred condemnation with the hope against hope left somewhere deep in his heart that there slept in hers an echo to his unuttered love.

The question he had never dared to ask she had answered—answered under oath, and liberty seemed now a very barren gift.

When he had been acquitted and was going out he saw a figure in consultation with the prosecutor—a figure which had not been inside the doors during the trial. It was Mr. Trevor of Louisville and he was testily saying: "Oh, well, there are more ways of killing a cat than by choking it with butter."

Anse Havey did not require the interpretation of an oracle for that cryptic comment. He knew that the effort to dispose of him would not end with his acquittal.

Juanita was going away to enlist her staff of teachers and arrange for the equipment of the little hospital, and Anse did not tell her of his insecurity.

"You'll promise to be very careful while I'm gone, won't you?" she demanded, as they sat together the night before she left.

"I'll try to last till you get back," he smiled. He was sitting with a pipe in his hand—a pipe which had gone out and been forgotten.

In the darkness of the porch everything was vague but herself. She seemed to him to be luminous by some light of her own. She was a very wonderful and desirable star shining far out of reach of his world.

Suddenly she laughed, and he asked.

"What is it?"

"I was just thinking what a fool I was when I came here," she answered. "Did you know that I brought a piano with me as far as Peril? It's been there over a year."

"A piano!" he echoed, then they both laughed.

"I might as well have tried to bring along the Philadelphia city hall," she admitted. "Just the same, there have been times when it would have meant a lot to me, an awful lot, if I could have had that piano. I don't know whether music means so much to you, but to me—"

"I know," he broke in. "I sometimes 'low that life ain't much else except the summin' up of the things a feller dreams. Music is like dreams—it makes dreams. Yes, I know somethin' about that."

She went away and, though she was not long gone, her absence seemed interminable to Anse Havey. He met her at the train on her return with a starved idolatry in his eyes, and together they rode back across the ridge.

But when she entered the building which had been the first schoolhouse the man drew back a step or two and watched as surreptitiously as a boy who has in due secrecy planned a surprise.

She went in and then suddenly halted and stood near the threshold in amazement. Her eyes began to dance and she gave a little gasp of delight. There against one wall stood her piano.

She turned to find Anse Havey waiting in the door as awkwardly as a green boy. Just how difficult a task it had been to bring that great weight across those roads unharmed she could only guess. He must, in effect, have built the roads before him as Napoleon built them for his armies.

She turned to him, deeply moved, and after the first flush of delight her eyes were misty.

"I wonder how I am ever going to thank you—for everything," she said softly.

But Bad Anse Havey only answered in an embarrassed voice: "I reckon it might be a little jingly, so I had a feller come up from Lexington and tune it up."

She went over and struck a chord, then she came back and laid a hand on his coat sleeve.

"I'm not going to try to thank you at all—now," she said. "But you go home and come back this evening and we'll have a little party, just you and I—with music."

"Good-by," he said. "I reckon ye haven't noticed it—but my rifle's standin' there in your rack."

It was a night of starlight, with just a sickle moon overhead and the music of the whippoorwills in the air, when Anse presented himself again at the school. He knew that he must break off these visits because while she had been away he had taken due accounting of himself and recognized that the poignant pain of locked lips would drive him beyond control. He could no longer endure "the unlit lamp and the ungirt loin." Now the sight of her set him into a palpitating fever and a burning madness. He would invent some excuse tonight and go away.

Then he came to the open door and stood on the threshold transfixed by the sight which greeted his eyes. His hat dropped to the floor and lay there.

He thought he knew Juanita. Now he suddenly realized that the real Juanita he had never seen before, and as he looked at her he felt infinitely far away from her. He was a very dim, faint star in apogee.

She sat with her back turned and her fingers straying over the keys of the piano—and she was in evening dress! The shaded lamp shone softly on ivory shoulders and a string of pearls glistened at her throat. Around her slim figure the soft folds of her gown fell like gossamer draperies and, to his eyes, she was utterly and flawlessly beautiful.

She had followed a whim that night and "dressed up" to surprise him. She had promised him a party and meant to receive him with as much preparation as she would have made for royalty. But to him it was only a declaration of the difference between them, emphasizing how unattainable she was; how unthinkably remote from him own rough world.

Then, as she heard his steps and rose, she was disappointed because in his face, instead of pleasure, she read only a tumult whose dominant note was distress.

"Don't you like me?" she asked, as she gave him her hand and smiled up at him.

"Like you!" he burst out, then he caught himself with something like a gasp. "Yes," he said dully, "I like you."

For a while she played and sang, and then they went out to the porch, where she sank down in the barrel-stave hammock which hung there and he sat in a split-bottom chair by her side.

He sat very moody and silent, his hands resting on his knees, trying to repress what he could not long hope to keep under.

She seemed oblivious to his deep abstraction, for she was humming some air low, almost under her breath.

But at last she sat up and laughed a silvery and subdued yet happy little laugh. She stretched her arms above her head.

"It's good to be back, Anse," she said softly. "I've missed you—lots."

He dared not tell her how he had missed her, and he did not recognize the new note in her voice—the heart note. There was a strange silence between them, and as they sat, so close that each could almost feel the other's breath, their eyes met and held in a locked gaze.

Slowly, as though drawn by some occult power over which he held no control, the man bent a little nearer, a little nearer. Slowly the girl's eyes dilated, and then, with no word, she suddenly gave a low exclamation, half gasp, half appeal, all inarticulate, and both hands went groping out toward him.

With something almost like a cry, the man was on his knees by the hammock and both his arms were around her and her head was on his shoulder. Then he was kissing her cheeks and lips and into his soul was coming a sudden discovery with the softness and coolness of the flesh his lips touched.

It lasted only a moment, then she pushed him back gently and rose, while one bare arm went gropingly across her face and the other hand went out to the porch post for support.

In a voice low and broken she said: "You must go!"

"No!" he exclaimed, and took a step toward her, but she retreated a little and shook her head.
